SOME African royal households have been the scene of violent quarrels and bloodings. One of Cote-d'Ivoire's attendants admitted the wife of King Langbellebe, and King Langbellebe himself, were cruelly wounding the latter. From fear of punishment adequate to the enormity of the crime, the king's attendant concluded it was best to die by his own hand, and committed suicide accordingly.

THE statue at Folkstone to the memory of Harvey, the first Governor of the colony of the blood, has been unveiled in the presence of a large and distinguished company, many of whom were present at the opening of the Congress in London. Prof. Owen unveiled the statue, and was presented by the Mayor of Folkstone with a copy of the historical works of Harvey. About 2500 persons in the next period of a luncheon served in the Town Hall.

Such wives, however, in the interest of discipline are forbidden to open salons or ballroom-rooms.

When the great hall which Henry VIII. added to the palace of Whitehall in 1533, Hampton was opened a fortnight ago, for a grand theatrical entertainment. It was the first time in 14 years that the theatre had been opened for such a purpose. About 600 visitors were present. His Majesty had given special permission for the occasion, with a view to the making of a convenient home that the Princess of Wales should have.

COMPLAINTS are made in England that candy can be purchased without difficulty by any person, and that the result is a most unfortunate result. Grenades of dynamite are employed to kill trout, and hardly a man is seen who does not carry a stick of powder using the explosive as a means of catching fish. It is said that the only means of taking one's life. A case reported from Yorkshire is that of a drunken well-digger, who put some dynamite in a tin, and put a cartridge in his mouth. His tongue, teeth, and maxillary bones were blown to pieces, although his skull was not, and from some cause, he suffered no harm at all.

Some years ago, when his friends were endeavoring to make it over to his creditors, who paid him 10,000,000 a year. In order to economize he took up his abode in a small house always in debt even there, and in the club was often known to borrow five or six louis from Fleming, his friend, who was a Jew. Travelling Costume

For plain, quiet tulle chevrons are the favorite fabric for travelling costumes. They are severe, and admit of no coquettish trimming, and are, therefore, well adapted to becoming very elegant. They are, nevertheless, big, yet are introduced by fashion and accepted. Those who wear them are distinguished by a clinging material, and by the admitting of all manner of dainty innovations, caprice and eccentricity. The tulle chevron, flannel has not lost its prestige, and very dainty travelling costumes are made of flanne, mulberry and dark blue flanne. Navy blue of this material retains its popularity and has a variety in the trimming consisting of gold and silver. Sometimes it is ombre; again, of three or four contrasting colors. Overalls are considered capricious. Vandyke is becoming very popular. "Three pieces" in one dress.

SUFFERING MICHIGAN.

THREE COUNTIES SWEEP BY THE FLAMES.

Human Belings Perished by Hundreds—Property Destroyed by Millions.

As many people of this section have floods in the burnt districts of Michigan, we devote considerable space to descriptions of the forest fires in that unhappy state this week.

A report from Detroit dated September 10th says:

At Freeling the unfortunate people, most of whom are Poles, were caught in a fire-trap, and literally roasted alive together with their cattle and horses.

At least 300 are supposed to have perished.

The following villages have been completely burned down: Bad Axe, Vermont, Bay, Richmondville, Charleston,

Anderson, Desererville, Harrisville, and Sandusky. The following have been partly burned: Port Hope, Minden and Urbey. South of Forestville from the lake shore for seven miles not one house is left, to the square mile. The settlers are nearly all Germans. The first surprise their property off like a hurricane, and drove many of them off like sheep into the lake, where they miserably perished.

In Delaware township the people and cattle have crowded to the lake shore.

Men, women, and children have lost even the clothes they stood up in, and in some cases have had their very hair, burned through. In Huron county the same has happened. One man living through Huron county, who had been the spread of the fire reported that he was driven entirely out of his house by a child. He gave them two logs to cover themselves with. A poor man in his neighborhood endeavored to save himself and children by digging a hole and covering them as best he could. He found them all dead. They were all suffocated by the smoke. The fire was driven by the wind, and the people were driven to the lake.

In addition to the dead, which are estimated at from 700 to 1,000, fully 5,000 persons have been rendered homeless, whom many are absolutely without food. Near Sandusky township, no wards, the people did not know of the fire until it was on their back, and ran for the lake, and it is estimated that a short distance of the lake shore is now a mass of dead bodies. Large parties of men have been driven to the lake shore, and the corpses should be a pestilence.

the history of the human race, in upon charity for assistance. So far as we can ascertain the number of persons who were burned to death there are several, and we are certain that the aggregate will exceed those figures. People who witnessed the fire of 1871 positively declared that they were no comparison with this.

Many were under the necessity of taking refuge in the river for four hours before they could see a way of escape from the intensity of the flames.

It is really heartrending to listen to individuals as they tell of the position in which they were, and how they lost their lives and their families.

There are many in this plight. The individual has no idea of the language and sad condition of the persons who are at the present time, but they are eye-witnesses thereof. In the most of these cases the people are of the German race, and most of them are Catholics. They

OLD WORLD FACTS AND GOSPEL.

Russian authorities have revised their former practice of sending to Siberia, without trial, persons who have been brought up to Nihilism. About 100 persons caught on a convey of some 200 persons was to be sent into that dreary country within a few days.

THERE was born recently to the Mayor of Liverpool a child, and the citizens of that place intend to commemorate the birth of the child by presenting to the Mayor's wife a handsome silver cradle. It is intended that the cradle be given by the committee which was recently appointed, and among those already received are several that may well be called liberal.

At private parties in St. Petersburg people have been lately talking of persons who have received no invitations, and the exclusion of these intruders has been followed by the information that the committee intend to receive individuals connected with the Soc-

There is about to be a celebration, lasting three days, of the erection at Kensington of a monument to the memory of Fredric Savage, a native of the town, for whom is claimed the honor of the discovery of the principle on which the mighty screw-propeller is built. These festivities will be given on the 11th, 12th and 13th inst., and will include a free performance at the theatre, a public dinner, balls, concert, and aquatic sports.

Reports from Australia are that the progress of the Prince of Wales's state through that country has been an uninterrupted series of festivities, reception, and congratulatory addresses, and that the monarch has expressly for their father they have been the first to see. In the Botanical gardens at Melbourne have been planted memorial trees, and among the numerous

From a Parliamentary return recently made of the national debt of Great Britain and Ireland on the last day of March, 1881, it appears that the total funded debt is £799,078,326, to which is to be added terminable annuities amounting to £34,988,485; exchequer bills, £5,162,890; exchequer bonds, £11,483,700; Treasury bills, £5,431,000; deficit to saving banks and friendly societies, (Nov. 20, 1881.) £3,900,541, showing a total of £790,745,002. From this sum certain reductions are to be made—£29,900,000 for loans recoverable, and £3,976,582 for MARTIN BACSI is probably the oldest subject within the boundaries of the Austrian Emperor's dominions, for he is either 120 or 130. In either case he has no one to dispute his claim to the eminence. He lives near Trefeschin, in Hungary, and is still strong and well. He has just celebrated recently celebrated the hundredth anniversary of his consecration, and the minister, in his sermon, remarked that no one who was present at the consecration was present at the anniversary celebration, and that no one present at the celebration would be there when another celebration should be a second celebration appropriate. Old Martin Bacsi heard all this in silence, but at the he astonished many who were at the table by telling them he had worked on the building when he was a young man and were present at the consecration of it. There were persons in the house past 60 and even 70 years of age, who admitted that they were children they knew Martin as a very old man. He appears to have been for many years a dependent on charity, but in his present old age he chops wood, carries water, and looks after the domestic animals for the Jewish master with whom he lives. He is said to have been offered independent income, but to have steadily refused it, as he preferred the life he led with the Jew. Such is the story.

"Be of good cheer," is as wise a prescription for the health of the body as of the soul.

No girl is fit to be married till she is thoroughly acquainted with the mysteries of the culinary art, even if she is not called upon to practice them. The love of a wedded life is kindled by the kitchen fire.

Miss JONES says, somewhere in his Discourses, that princes learn to art well but that of housewifery is the reason he gives for which is, that the brave prince is no flatterer, and will throw a prince as readily as his groom.

MULTITUDES in their haste to get rich are ruined every year. The men who do things maturely, slowly, deliberately, are the men who oftenest succeed in life. People who are habitually in a hurry generally have to do

THE DAY OF REST.—Never was there a more blessed institution than the Sunday, the sacred day of rest, which is the soul's health and the body's health of the human race, on at least one day in seven there should be an opportunity for devotion in daily life. "Thus, let a man attain to the period of three score years and ten, he has gained a holiday of ten years' duration, if he let his life be a holiday."

ing three-score years. Let childhood be taught to use, and manhood discreetly use,

A Feeble Current of Water.
From the Tahiti Times.

Lake Tahoe is situated 6,222 feet above the sea, is twenty-two miles long from north to south, and two miles in lake wide, the general contour being a parallelogram. The greatest measured depth that we have good authority for is 1,482 feet, and the water never goes below 39 degrees Fahrenheit, and in summer never above 60, unless it is near the shore in summer months, or when a stream of sun-warmed water runs into it. At a depth of 300 feet the temperature never changes, but 300 degrees for another 100 feet, and for another 100 feet of 300 persons never rising, the water being so cold no gases are generated; hence the body swim goes to pieces from the action of the water. If it is buoyant, it will float, and if it is not at the same altitude, there being no appreciable difference in the readings of the hydrometer, hence the fact that it will not do so, but float for any time, persons cannot swim, and the like, are fallacies. The air being very light at this elevation above the sea, no exercise of any kind, either on land or water, cannot be so long continued as in lower and heavier atmospheres.

position. No matter how deep the water may be over the rock, it is shattered, when the dynamite explodes, into fragments so small that they are washed away by the stream. The process is said to save forty per cent. on the cost of removing submerged rocks.

The undersigned wishes to announce to the public the arrival of the DOMINION ORGANS, which are nicely tuned, and beautiful in design and construction. I did not expect to find in any city so cheaply recommended and warrant the thirty years handling of these instruments. Second-hand organs for sale cheap, or to rent low. A good stool with each instrument. Organs cleaned and tuned.
